

Matthew C. J. Rudolph

2 Ardmore Rd., Kensington, CA. 94707

Ph: +1 (609) 672-5103 Fax: (510) 526-8637 E-mail: bandarpunch\(a\)gmail.comgmail.com)

Website: <http://www.himalayancrossings.com>

Education

DEPARTMENT OF GOVERNMENT, CORNELL UNIVERSITY (Ithaca, NY)

Ph.D. Political Science, 2006

International Relations, Comparative Politics

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE, UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA

(Berkeley, CA) Exchange Scholar, 1998-1999

NATIONAL TAIWAN UNIVERSITY (Taipei, Taiwan)

Mandarin Training, 1997

SWARTHMORE COLLEGE (Swarthmore, PA)

Bachelor of Arts (Honors), Political Science, Art History 1991

UNIVERSITÉ DE GRENOBLE (Grenoble, France)

1988-1989

WOODSTOCK SCHOOL (Mussoorie, UP. India)

1976, 1980, 1984

Employment and Positions

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY (Washington, DC)

Visiting Assistant Professor, present

Department of Government

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA (Santa Cruz, CA)

Lecturer, 2008 - 2009

Department of Politics

NAVAL POST-GRADUATE SCHOOL (Monterey, CA)

Visiting Assistant Professor, 2008

Department of National Security Affairs

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY (Princeton, NJ)

Post-doctoral Associate (Research and Teaching), 2006

Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies, Politics Department

INSTITUTE OF CURRENT WORLD AFFAIRS (Hanover, NH)

Phillips Talbot South Asian Affairs Fellow, 2004-2005

DEPARTMENT OF GOVERNMENT, CORNELL UNIVERSITY (Ithaca, NY)

Research Assistant

Assisted Dr. Peter Katzenstein research various IR and IPE topics, 2002

Teaching Assistant

Various years. Courses in comparative politics, international politics, and history.

TRADE AND FINANCE RESEARCH INSTITUTE, CHINESE ACADEMY OF SOCIAL SCIENCES
(Beijing) Visiting Research Fellow, 2000-2001

INDIAN COUNCIL FOR RESEARCH ON INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC RELATIONS
(New Delhi) Visiting Research Fellow, 2000

THE HENRY L. STIMSON CENTER (Washington, DC)
Project Coordinator, Senior Research Assistant 1991-1994

Language Study

Mandarin, Hindi, French

Fellowships

- Phillips Talbot South Asian Affairs Fellow, Institute of Current World Affairs (2004-2005)
- Mellon Foundation Doctoral Fellowship in the Social Sciences (1994, 1998, 2001)
- Sage Graduate Fellowship, Cornell University (1998)
- American Institute of Indian Studies (1999 doctoral research fellowship)
- Committee for Scholarly Communication with China (2000)
- J. William Fulbright Scholar (1999: recipient declined)
- Lee T'eng-hui World Affairs Fellowship, Cornell University (Fall 1995)
- C.V. Starr Fellowship for Chinese Studies, Cornell University (Fall 1996, Spring 1998)
- Social Science Research Council, International Pre-Dissertation Fellowship (1997)
- U.S. Dept. of Education, Foreign Language and Area Studies Fellowships (1995, 1999)

Doctoral Thesis

The Diversity of Convergence: State Authority, Economic Governance, and the Politics of Securities Finance in China and India

The dissertation explains contrasting patterns of financial reform in China and India. In doing so, it explores the politics involved in the commodification of finance. The work revises Gerschenkron's "backwardness" argument that linked state power and the structures of finance in late developing countries. Conceptually the thesis establishes "securitization" – the structural shift from the credit-based finance (banking) to securities-based finance (stocks and bonds) – as a politically consequential yet understudied phenomenon. Banking and directed-credit are socially and politically embedded practices in which finance is not a commodity. Securitization "disembeds" finance, as funding, ownership, and control are commoditized in the form of stocks and bonds. Late developing states have historically used the management of finance as a crucial lever of economic control and political power. Securitization challenges this model of state-economy relations. It can shape who controls the economy and how. In the international and comparative political economy tradition of 'open-economy' analysis, the dissertation explains differing responses to a common event – securitization – in China and India with reference to domestic and international variables including a country's position in the international economy, the dominant coalition's access to finance, and the structure of property rights. The dissertation advisors are Peter Katzenstein, Vivienne Shue (co-chairs), Ronald Herring, and Jonathan Kirshner.

Teaching Experience

Asian Security: Sovereignty, National Aspiration and Conflict; Political Economy of Asia. Introduction to International Relations. Comparative Development: The South Asian Experience. History of World War Two in Europe. Numerous lectures to various civilian and military audiences in the US and abroad on contemporary Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Economy and Indian and Chinese affairs.

Below is a list of other courses I am prepared to teach and for which there are syllabi in my application dossier. Dragon and Elephant in the Modern World: Asia's Emerging Giants in Comparative Perspective. The IT Revolutions in China and India. Finance and World Politics: From the East India Companies to the East Asian Crisis and Beyond. The Comparative Politics of Development and Transition in Asia: Sectoral Approaches.

Publications

Edited Volumes

A Handbook of Confidence Building Measures for Regional Security [1st edition]. With Michael Krepon and D. McCoy. (Washington, DC: The Henry L. Stimson Center, 1993).

“The Indo-Pakistani CBM Process” in Krepon, McCoy and Rudolph, A Handbook of Confidence Building Measures for Regional Security (various editions).

“The Sino-Indian CBM Process” in Krepon, McCoy and Rudolph, A Handbook of Confidence Building Measures for Regional Security (various editions).

Articles

“Dragon as Exemplar? Beware Convenient Uses of the China Model.” Economic and Political Weekly, 40 (7). February 18, 2006.

Various articles published from the Institute of Current World Affairs. Hanover, NH. 2004-2005.

“Unfinished Business: India’s 2001 Stock Market Scam.” Economist Intelligence Unit, Business India Intelligence, May 2001.

Opinion/Press

“Kerry's not Scary,” The Hindu, 10-27, 2004 (with Andrew Dailey and Kapil Shukla).

“A Reputation on the Line,” The Hindu, 08-26, 2002 (with Deepanshu Bagchee).

“Safety First: building confidence during the nuclear transition,” The Hindu, 09-03, 2001 (with Deepanshu Bagchee).

“Misguided Missiles: Possible South Asian Consequences of the US Missile Defense Plan,” The Hindu, 05-05, 2001 (with Deepanshu Bagchee).

“Losing the IT Advantage? How India could loose out to China,” The Business Standard, 07-05, 2000.

“Waiting for Clinton – In Jaipur,” The Chicago Tribune, 03-08, 2000 (with Lloyd and Susanne Rudolph).

Selected Conference, Paper, and Seminar Presentations

Mini-Course, “China Rising”, “Trends Across the Taiwan Strait”. Regional Security Education Program. Naval Postgraduate School. Monterey, CA. April 3, 2009.

Mini-Course, “Current Trends in Asian Security” (“China Rising”, “Indian Grand Strategy”, “Crisis in Pakistan?”, “Sri Lanka: Past and Present” “Kashmir”). Regional Security Education Program. United States Navy. Pacific Command. San Diego, CA. January 9 – 20, 2009.

Smithsonian Institution. “Introduction to India” (multiple lectures). January – February, 2009. India.

- Seminar, "Critical trends in China: perspectives on regional and global security." Army Directed Studies Office. Springfield, VA. October 21, 2008.
- Discussant, "Pakistan's Foreign Policy in a Time of Change." Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, CA. June 26-27, 2008.
- Seminar, "Institutions, Politics and Securities Finance in China and India." Centre for Asian Studies, Hong Kong University. April 5, 2008.
- Seminar, "Between the US and China in Asia's Strategic Triangle: India's Grand Strategy of Equipose." Seminar presentation. RAND Corp., Washington, DC. June 29, 2007.
- Seminar, "The Politics of Securities Finance in China and India." University of California, Irvine. Program in International Studies. April 7, 2007.
- Paper, Understanding Securities Regulation in China and India. Williams College, Department of Government. December 14, 2006
- Paper, "Securitization and the Politics of Stock Exchange Governance in China and India." Harvard Business School. Department of Business, Government and the International Economy. November 29, 2006
- Paper, Asia's New Strategic Triangle: US-China-India Relations in Eclectic Perspective. Presented at the Annual Conference of the American Political Science Association. Philadelphia, PA. 29 August – September 2, 2006.
- Paper, S.P. Mukherjee as Iconic Antidote and Progenitor: Kashmir, Leadership Lineage and the BJP in Crisis. Presented to the Committee on South Asian Studies. Princeton University. May 15, 2006.
- Paper, The Dragon and the Elephant Enter the Matrix: Asset-Classes, Financial-Positions, and the Politics of Securitization in China and India. Presented at the Annual Conference of the American Political Science Association. Philadelphia, PA. 28-31 August 2003.
- Paper, Incorporation and Resistance in Multi-National States: A Gramscian Analysis of State-Building in China and India with Reference to Tibet and Kashmir. Presented at the Annual Conference of the Association of Asian Studies. New York, NY. 27-29, March 2003.
- Paper, Weaving Iago's Purse: Market Building, Social Control and the Politics of Financial Reform in Developing and Transitional Economies. Presented at the Annual Conference of the Association of Asian Studies. Washington, DC. 04-08, April 2002.
- Paper, The Diversity of Convergence: Global Finance, Capital Control, and the Politics of Securitization in China. Presented at the 43rd Annual Convention of the International Studies Association. New Orleans, LA. 24-27, March 2002.
- Paper, The Politics of Marketizing Capital: Securitization, Developmental Objectives, and State-led Capital Market Reform in Indian Transition. 30th Annual Conference on South Asian Studies. Madison, WS. 18-21, October 2001.
- Discussant, "The Chemical Weapons Convention." MacArthur Foundation Conference on Transnational Norms and International Security, Cornell University, Ithaca, NY. 16 October 1996.
- Paper, Securing the Periphery: Tibet, Kashmir and the Construction of the Chinese and Indian State in a panel on "State-Building and Center-Periphery Relations." New York Political Science Association, Annual Meeting, Ithaca College, Ithaca, NY. 10, May 1996.

Work in Progress

Securing the Periphery: Tibet, Kashmir, and the Construction of Chinese and Indian State Ideologies of Incorporation

Breaking Away? With IT, India Confronts the Challenges of its First Leading Global Sector

Icon and Antidote: The Uses of S.P. Mukherjee in India's Hindu-oriented Politics

What Ripens Rivalry? Insecurity and Contested Sovereignty in Asia

Between the US and China in Asia's Strategic Triangle: India's Grand Strategy of Equipoise

Referee

India Review, Problems of Post-Communism, Journal of International Business Studies, Review of Economics and Statistics. Democracy and Security.

Letters of Reference (Academic)

Prof. Peter Katzenstein, Government Department, Cornell University.

pjk2@cornell.edu; +1 (607) 255-6257

Prof. Vivienne Shue, Institute for Chinese Studies, Oxford University.

vivienne.shue@sant.ox.ac.uk; +44 (186) 528-0382

Prof. Ronald J. Herring, Government Department, Cornell University.

rjh5@cornell.edu; +1 (607) 255-4060

Departmental Contact

Tina Slater, (607) 255-3567, tms2@cornell.edu